

New in the Library! Book study rooms online!

The Library now has an online booking system for the group and single study rooms in the Dana Porter and Davis Centre Libraries.

New! A Library Special for OPD students!

Do you like to study with a buddy? Need a room to meet with a tutor? OPD students have priority access--up to 2 days ahead of time--to booking the group study room DC 1517 in the Davis Centre Library.

Here's how to book:

- Send Janet Wason an e-mail, at jewason@library.uwaterloo.ca, by 3:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Your booking will be in effect once you have received an e-mail confirmation from her.
- In your e-mail, state the date and time for your booking; include the name you would like appear on the booking sheet.
- For OPD students, a 'group' is considered to be 2 or more people. You may also book weeks in advance, so keep this offer in mind for regular meetings and appointments.
- To get this special arrangement, which only applies to advance bookings, you must book through Janet.

Limits

- The room may be booked for up to 3 hours to a maximum of 10 hours per week.
- Rooms must be left in good condition or booking privileges could be revoked.
- If you haven't arrived at your booking after 15 minutes, the room will be available for others.
- If at all possible, if you can't make your booking, let Janet know so that she can free up the room.
- Bookings that extend outside of library hours cannot be honoured.
